DOROTHEUM

1. When filming or photographing discretion must be maintained that no front or profile pictures be taken of visitors and/or customers of the Dorotheum. However, it is allowed to record members of staff of the Dorotheum with prior notice.
2. Art objects and paintings are not to be touched. In case a change in the location of an object is required, you are kindly requested to contact the Dorotheum.
3. The objects to be reproduced may be subject to copyright protection. The Dorotheum explicitly stipulates that the production of photographs and films, as well as their respective use, requires the permission (the right of exploitation or the licence of exploitation) of the copyright holder. The Dorotheum is not in a position to grant any rights in connection with the objects to be reproduced and cannot be held responsible for claims of third parties that may possibly arise. In the event that the Dorotheum is approached by third parties in connection with the visiting crew's use of reproductions, the visiting crew shall indemnify the Dorotheum. The same applies to the rights of individuals depicted in films or photographs.
4. The Dorotheum agrees to the one-time publication of the material produced within the framework of this permit for the purpose stated below. Unless prior written consent has been obtained from the Dorotheum, any further use is prohibited. The Dorotheum shall be informed of the actual publication, and its Communication Department shall be supplied with a sample copy of the published material. The undersigned warrants that the terms and conditions of this agreement shall also be observed by all employees, contractors, agents and other persons affiliated with the undersigned.
5. It is not permitted to film, photograph or record security systems, persons not involved in the production or their conversations.
